1. Opening reception for photo exhibit starts 50th anniversary clock

The center officially launched its 50th anniversary year March 5 at an opening reception in the Holmes Student Center Gallery Lounge for “Islamic Cultures in Reflection: An Exhibition of Photographs from Southeast Asia,” a traveling show created by the University of Hawaii’s Center for Southeast Asian Studies. About 80 people, including faculty, students, and NIU staff members attended the event. CSEAS Interim Director Trude Jacobsen introduced Anne Kaplan, Vice President for Outreach, Engagement and Information Technologies, and College of Liberal Arts & Sciences Dean Chris McCord, both of whom made short remarks acknowledging the center’s decades of contributions to Southeast Asia scholarship and to NIU’s prominent place in the field of Southeast Asian studies in the U.S. University of Wisconsin doctoral student Anthony Medrano, who co-curated the exhibit in 2005 while a student at the University of Hawaii, gave brief remarks about the exhibit’s background before Jacobsen concluded the short program. The center’s anniversary committee, which began working in August on anniversary plans, was also introduced: Former CSEAS Director Clark Neher (political science professor emeritus) and NIU alumnus John Brandon (Asia Foundation), who are serving as honorary co-chairs, and committee members Deb Pierce, Associate Provost International Programs, Rhodalyne Gallo-Crail (foreign languages and literatures), Susan Russell (anthropology and former CSEAS director), Hao Phan (University Libraries), Richard Cooler (art history professor emeritus and founding director of the Center for Burma Studies), Robert Kollas (master’s candidate, political science), and CSEAS staff members Julia Lamb, Jayeeta Chowdhury-Woodstrup, Liz Denius, and Nancy Schuneman (who could not be there, but sent flowers that graced the food table). The center thanks all who helped with the opening reception, including the Holmes Student Center’s Connie Rolon, Norm Jenkins and Rich Garden, and students Matt Ropp, Glynnis White, SaraEmily Lekberg, Jennifer Puetz, Shannon Hart, Eric Boetje, and Nicole

University of Wisconsin doctoral student Anthony Medrano looks at the “Islamic Cultures in Reflection” exhibit, a show he helped put together in 2007 while a student at the University of Hawaii-Manoa. The exhibit will be on display at the Holmes Center until March 30.

Anniversary committee member Richard Cooler, art history professor emeritus, makes a point to fellow committee member and NIU alumnus John Brandon of the Asia Foundation.
Loring. The exhibit will be on display through March 30. Upcoming anniversary activities, to begin in September, include a Southeast Asia film series, lectures, exhibits, alumni events, publications and a dinner gala with cultural performances in March 2013. For details on these and other 50th projects, see the anniversary calendar to be posted soon on the CSEAS website.

2. CSEAS on the road: International education summit at Harper College

CSEAS Interim Director Trude Jacobsen (history) was at Harper College in Palatine March 2 to speak at a one-day summit on infusing international education into college curricula. About 70 educators from community and four-year colleges were at the event. In her session, Jacobsen talked about integrating Southeast Asia from a multidisciplinary perspective across all levels and demonstrated a few class exercises. First she passed around an artifact she identified only as coming from Southeast Asia for participants to figure out what the object was and where it came from (it was a Vietnamese jar meant to hold the ashes of a famous person). She handed out paper and pens and asked the group to write down everything they knew about the Vietnam War as a way of showing how “a baseline of knowledge” could be established in a class, she said. In another exercise, geared to public health and disease, Jacobsen made up a Southeast Asian village with various physical characteristics and asked the group to figure out the kind of diseases most likely to affect the residents. The group had fun with the exercises, Jacobsen said. “At the end, a primatologist came up to me and said she had all these ideas for teaching students in Bolivia!” Jacobsen said.

3. Center associates update: Toronto-bound for AAS

Hamayotsu

Assistant political science professor Kikue Hamayotsu looks at identity politics and the ongoing governmental transition in Malaysia since the 2008 elections in “Malaysia after Regime Change,” just published in New Mandala: New Perspectives on Mainland Southeast Asia, Australian National University’s online magazine. Hamayotsu will also be in Toronto this week at the March 15–18 Association of Asian Studies (AAS) annual conference to present “The Conservative Turn in Democratic Indonesia? Explaining the State’s Inability to Protect Religious Freedom.”

Other CSEAS associates will be joining Hamayotsu at AAS. Patricia Henry (foreign languages and literatures) is presenting “Texts within Texts: Translation Issues in Old Javanese and Early Indonesian Literature,” Center for Burma Studies Director Catherine Raymond is presenting her annual report to the Burma Studies Foundation, Kheang Un (political science) is attending for the association’s Southeast Asia Council, and Hao Phan (University Libraries) is attending Committee on Research Materials on Southeast Asia (CORMOSEA) meetings. CSEAS Interim Director Trude Jacobsen (history) will also be at the conference.

4. Apply this week for Thai studies travel grants

Students and faculty who specialize in the Thai world are invited to apply for travel funding from the Thai Teaching and Research Fund; applications are due March 16. Travel for research purposes or conference attendance are acceptable grounds for funding. Amounts typically do not exceed $500 for students; faculty awards are determined according to a separate scale.
Funding will only be given for research and travel to and within Southeast Asia. Applicants should submit a clear, concise description of the purpose of the project proposed, a budget, and ways in which any funds received would be used to further Thai studies. Those seeking funding for conference attendance must submit an abstract of the paper they intend to present as well as evidence that the paper has been accepted. Students must also include a letter of recommendation from their faculty advisor. Successful recipients will be notified in early April. Applications should be addressed to the Thai Teaching and Research Funding Awards Committee, Center for Southeast Asian Studies. They can be mailed to or dropped off at the CSEAS office, 520 College View Court, DeKalb, IL 60115. They also may be emailed to cseas@niu.edu with “TTRF Funding Awards Committee” in the subject line.

5. Prepare for the podium: Student conference best-paper candidates due March 19

Keynote speaker University of Wisconsin-Madison historian Michael Cullinane will present “Anti-Colonial Rebels: Arenas of Conspiracy and Revolution in the Philippines at the Turn of the 20th Century” at the Southeast Asia Club’s spring student conference to be held April 7 in Altgeld Hall. The conference theme is “Western Influence in Southeast Asia,” though papers may be submitted on any topic pertaining to SEA. Papers will be accepted in undergraduate and graduate categories. For those wishing to compete in the best-paper competition, papers will be due March 19. For those wishing to present only, papers will be due March 30. Best paper awards will be given for both undergraduate and graduate papers. Send abstracts to conference organizer Robert Kollas at rkollas@niu.edu.

6. SEAYLP and PYLP want you: Hosting is special experience for local families

Five DeKalb and Sycamore households have signed up, but the center is still seeking ten families to act as hosts April 12–25 for twenty-five high school students and five adult leaders from Cambodia, Indonesia, Myanmar (Burma), the Philippines and Thailand participating in the spring session of the center’s Southeast Asia Youth Leadership Program (SEAYLP). Students are placed in pairs and adults may be placed as singles. Host families provide a bed for each participant, breakfast each day and most dinners, all meals during any weekend days at home, and transportation to and from class sessions at NIU. Host family orientation scheduled for 7 to 8:30 p.m. Monday, April 9. There will be a farewell reception from 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 25. For details and a host family application, contact NIU host family coordinator Leslie Shive at 815-753-9546 or email lshive@niu.edu.

Host families are also being sought for the April 14–May 17 Philippine Youth Leadership Program (PYLP), another State Department-sponsored youth exchange program, this one bringing young people and adult leaders from the Autonomous Region of Muslim Mindanao and surrounding provinces in the Philippines to NIU for five weeks under the auspices of the International Training Office and direction of CSEAS associates Susan Russell (anthropology) and Lina Ong (ITO). The home stay dates for PYLP are April 28–May 10 (orientation for families is 7 to 8:30 p.m. April 23). As with SEAYLP, contact Leslie Shive for details.

Want to read more about SEAYLP? The SEAYLP staff has posted Voices of SEAYLP, a newsletter of articles written by the fall 2011 batch of participants, on the center website.

7. Presentations proposals due this week for Teaching SEA to Undergraduates conference

CSEAS is hosting a one-day conference for college-level instructors, Building Our Global Future: Teaching Southeast Asia to Undergraduates, at NIU this spring on Saturday, April 28, and is accepting proposals for presentations on teaching Southeast Asian history and politics, current events, religions and cultures, human rights, arts and music or geography. Modest travel stipends may be available. Proposals should be submitted by March 15 to Julie Lamb at jlamb@niu.edu (or faxed to 815-753-1776). Conference keynote speaker will be NIU alumnus and The College of Idaho professor Robert Dayley (Ph.D. political science, 1997), who teaches about Southeast Asia to undergraduates and was named Idaho Professor of the Year in 2011.

8. Call for papers: Imagining Cambodia 2012 abstracts due this week

NIU’s Cambodia Studies Working Group and CSEAS, in collaboration with the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Ohio University, University of Massachusetts-Lowell, and the Center for Khmer Studies in Cambodia, are inviting submissions for presentations and panels for an international Cambodia Studies Conference to take place Sept. 13–16 at NIU. Abstracts and panel proposals are due March 15; papers are due June 15. The conference theme is “Imagining Cambodia,” which opens up the field for presentations in the arts as well as social sciences and humanities, encourages multimedia/interdisciplinary project and promotes creative work on both future possibilities and re-imagined versions of the past. Papers on Cambodian diaspora communities are also welcome. In addition to regular academic panels, the conference will feature themed panels for which papers will be circulated in advance to all registered participants for in-depth discussions on particular topics. The conference will also include a musical performance and a field trip to the Cambodian American Heritage Museum and Killing Fields Memorial in Chicago.

9. Save the dates: Study Abroad deadlines, SEA culture night in April, teacher conference

- March 15: Deadline to apply for NIU Malaysia Study Abroad program.
- April 1: Deadline to apply for NIU Indonesia Study Abroad program.
- April 7: Southeast Asia Club Spring Student Conference, Altgeld Hall, NIU.
- April 14: Southeast Asia Culture Night, sponsored by Southeast Asia Club, 6 p.m. Wirtz Hall Auditorium. Free food and cultural performances.
April 28: Building Our Global Future: Teaching Southeast Asian Studies to Undergraduates conference at NIU, sponsored by CSEAS.

10. Deadlines approaching to study abroad in SEA this summer with NIU
NIU is offering three opportunities to study abroad in Southeast Asia this summer with NIU faculty members. CSEAS adjunct Tomoyuki Shibata (nursing and health studies/public health), who is conducting his first study abroad program to Indonesia, recently received a grant that will shave $600 off the cost for each participant. CSEAS associate Eric Jones (history) is taking students to Malaysia for the seventh time. Andrea Katalin Molnar (anthropology) is reprising her 2011 Culture and Diversity in Thailand program. All offer undergraduate and graduate course credit. For details on programs, financial aid, travel grants, scholarships, and applications, contact the Study Abroad Office, 417 Williston Hall; or e-mail niuabroad@niu.edu. Study Abroad 101 workshop meets at 3:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in 417 Williston.

- Public Health and Health Education in Indonesia, June 4–22: Three-week program of interest to students of public health, nursing, pre-med, nutrition, geography, environmental studies, and Southeast Asian studies. Program builds on summer 2011 research project in Makassar, Indonesia conducted by Tomoyuki Shibata in cooperation with Hasanuddin University. Mandatory pre- and post-program meetings: April 2, May 14, and Aug. 27. Deadline to apply: April 1. For details, email Shibata at tshibata@niu.edu.

- Cultural Diversity in Thailand, June 15–July 14: Four-week program focuses on cultural diversity in Thailand and the relationship between the dominant majority and minorities of the country. Deadline has been extended.

- Study Abroad Malaysia: History and Culture of Southeast Asia, July 22–Aug. 10: Three-week program will be of interest to students interested in history of Southeast Asia, globalization, comparative religion, colonial and post-colonial culture and incorporates significant time in Kuala Lumpur, Melaka, Penang, the jungles of Sarawak and Borneo, and the agricultural Cameron Highlands. Deadline to apply: March 15.

11. Call for papers: 10th International Burma Studies Conference
The board of trustees of the Burma Studies Foundation, the Burma Studies Group, and the Center for Burma Studies at NIU invite papers on all aspects of Burma studies for presentation at the 10th International Burma Studies Conference to be held Oct. 5–7 at NIU. Submissions are welcome in the fields of anthropology, art history, environment, health, history, literature, linguistics, music, political science, popular culture, religions, and area studies. Panels and papers should be devoted primarily to new research, including recent events in Burma. Proposals for papers or panels are due April 15. Send the title, abstract and all queries to: bsc2012@niu.edu. The conference will feature academic presentations and cultural events. For details, call 815-753-0512.

12. Call for papers: Council on Thai Studies Conference
The Council on Thai Studies (COTS) welcomes students and scholars of Thailand and the broader Tai world to submit paper abstracts for the 2012 COTS conference, which will be held Oct. 26–27 at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio. The conference will mark the 40th anniversary of the founding of the Council on Thai Studies, which was founded at NIU in 1972 to bring Thai specialists in the Midwest together once a year. The keynote speech will be given by Charnvit Kasetsiri, Thai historian and former rector of Thammasat University. Abstracts are due Aug. 3. This year’s conference, which previously has been held at NIU and at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, is being sponsored this year by Ohio University Libraries, the OU Center for Southeast Asian Studies, the Contemporary History Institute, the Southeast Asian Student Association, and the Thai Student Association. For details, email conference organizer Jeffrey Shane at shane@ohio.edu.

13. Competition for 2012–13 Faculty Fulbright Scholar Program open
The Fulbright Scholar Program, which offers awards for faculty members to spend as little as three weeks to as long a year abroad, has opened its competition for 2012–13 awards. Applications are due Aug. 1. An interactive catalog of awards is available online. See the Council for International Exchange of Scholars (CIES) website. The Fulbright program is administered by CIES, a division of the Institute of International Education, and sponsored by the U.S. State Department’s Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. The deadline for student Fulbright scholarships will be in September; for information on these and other international scholarship opportunities, see the Study Abroad website.

14. American Studies Program at Chulalongkorn seeking working papers
The American Studies Program at Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok is looking for working papers, academic essays and dissertations for publication. Papers may be written in English or Thai, and should fall in one of four categories: Thai-U.S. relations, U.S. politics and society, U.S.-ASEAN relations, or the U.S. role in Asia/Southeast Asia. Submissions must be between 10,000 and 15,000 words; co-authored work acceptable. The deadline for submission is May 15. Authors will receive approximately $320 for a published paper. For details, email asp.isisthailand@gmail.com.

15. Overseas language, exchange, and area studies programs
   - United States-Indonesia Society 2012 Summer Language Study Program, June–August
     Intensive ten-week language and general studies program at Gadjah Mada University in Yogyyakarta, Indonesia. Applications due: March 15. See program details on USINDO website.
   - Advanced Study of Khmer (ASK) Summer Abroad Program, June 11–Aug. 3
     Intensive eight-week training in Khmer language-culture for third-year students in Phnom Penh, Cambodia. Applications due: April 6. Administered by the Khmer Language Program at the University of Hawaii in collaboration with the Royal University of Phnom-Penh, Cambodia. Funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Fulbright-Hays, and Group Projects. For details, see the program website.
   - Summer Study Abroad in Laos (SAIL), July 1–31
     Study Lao, language, history and culture this summer in the Land of a Million Elephants during four-week program sponsored by the San Francisco-based Center for Lao Studies. Program based at the Lao-American College in Vientiane, Laos. Applications due: April 16. For details and application, see the program website.
NOTE: Students interested in taking language or area studies abroad through non-NIU programs are advised to work through NIU’s Study Abroad Office, 417 Williston Hall. By doing so, students can receive NIU credit and possibly have NIU financial aid apply, in addition to receiving liability and insurance protections.

16. Relief efforts continue to aid flood victims in Cambodia, Thailand, Philippines
Monsoon and tropical storm flooding in mainland and island Southeast Asia, particularly in Cambodia, on Mindanao in the Philippines and Thailand, has displaced millions of people and put many others at risk of disease, injury and hardship as waters ebb. Rebuilding efforts and disaster relief will be ongoing for months. U.S. embassies in both countries are providing aid and funds, coordinating with humanitarian assistance teams from the U.S. military and routing millions of dollars in U.S. assistance funds. To connect with assistance efforts, CSEAS offers this list:

- International Red Cross: The Cambodian Red Cross, Philippine Red Cross and Thai Red Cross are accepting donations for relief efforts though their respective websites.
- Royal Thai Embassy: Donations to flood victims in Thailand are being accepted through the embassy. Send checks or money orders (payable to Royal Thai Embassy) to Consular Affairs Section, Royal Thai Embassy, 1024 Wisconsin Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20007. See the embassy’s Facebook page (Royal Thai Embassy, Washington, D.C.) for donation updates or call 202-285-1547.
- Save the Children: International aid organization is accepting donations through its Thailand Floods Children in Emergency Fund. See the Save the Children website.
- Royal Embassy of Cambodia: Contact the embassy at 4530 16th St., N.W., Washington, DC 20011; phone 202-726-7742.
- World Food Programme: The food aid arm of the United Nations is offering assistance in affected countries. To view a list of current operations, see the WFP website; to donate, see the Fill the Cup section of the website.
- World Vision Cambodia: International aid group is distributing rice to affected communities where rice fields and other food sources have been compromised by flooding. See the World Vision website (under Disaster Response Fund).

17. Money for study

Center for Khmer Studies
- Summer junior resident fellowships: Five undergraduate openings for six-week fellowship (June 18–Aug. 3) based at center in Siem Reap. Fellowship covers tuition, accommodation, local transport, study materials and some field trip expenses. Some grants available for international air fares, visas and medical insurance. Deadline to apply: April 11. See program website.

Harvard Kennedy School of Government
- Indonesia research fellowships: Indonesian researchers, academics, and practitioners invited to pursue independent research projects as research fellows in one of three categories: pre-doc, post-doc, or senior practitioner. Appointments will run from August 2012 to July 2013. Deadline to apply: March 15. For details, see program website.

Center for Citizenship, Civil Society and Rule of Law
- Three-year doctoral fellowships: Interdisciplinary center at University of Aberdeen welcomes students from anthropology, cultural and literary studies, history, legal theory and socio-legal studies, philosophy, politics, religious studies, sociology and theology for 2012–13 fellowships. Fellowship covers full fees and partial maintenance. Deadline to apply: March 30. See center website.

East-West Center
- Graduate degree fellowships: Funding for graduate students to participate in residential, educational and research programs at East-West Center while pursuing degree at University of Hawaii.
