Help CSEAS grow for next 50

The next half-century for Southeast Asian Studies at NIU will offer exciting opportunities for teaching and learning about this rising region of the world. To keep NIU’s program strong, consider making a donation to CSEAS through the NIU Foundation. To contribute by phone or by mail, go to the How to Make a Gift section of the NIU Foundation website. To make a gift online, go to the Make a Gift Now section. Click on “Make a Gift Now.” Within the pop-up box, designate your gift by selecting “a specific area,” then “university wide programs,” then “Center for Southeast Asian Studies.” Your support is greatly appreciated.
1. This week’s lecture: Rethinking revolution in Vietnam

Tuong Vu, associate professor of political science at the University of Oregon, will present “Rethinking Revolution in Vietnam: Triumphs or Tragedies on the Road to Socialism” at noon Friday, Sept. 27, in Room 110 (Honors office), Campus Life Building. Vu will discuss the emerging perspective on the Vietnamese revolution that challenges both the conventional portrayal of the revolution and the communist account of their revolutionary success. To order a Cambodian lunch, submit an online request by 6 p.m. Thursday at CSEAS Brown Bag Lunch Order. Orders must be cancelled online by 10 a.m. Friday. Cost is $5 for students and $6 for faculty, staff and others. Payments may be made in cash or by check. For details, e-mail seabrownbag@gmail.com. The entire fall lecture series schedule is posted on the Center website.

2. A warm reception for a royal visitor

More than 300 people came to NIU’s Altgeld Hall Auditorium on Sept. 18 to see Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn of Thailand receive an honorary doctorate of humane letters, with some area Thai visitors arriving as early as 5 a.m. just to be sure they got a seat. When the Princess and her entourage arrived, she was greeted at the entrance to Altgeld Hall by NIU President Douglas Baker and his wife, Dana, who presented her with a bouquet of flowers. The hour-long program, accompanied by the music of Mozart, Handel, and Haydn performed by NIU’s Kaia String Quartet, began with a procession of regalia-robed faculty, followed by the Princess and members of the platform party. Remarks were made by NIU President Douglas Baker, Provost Raymond Alden, and Thai scholar and political science professor emeritus Clark Neher. After receiving her degree, the Princess also spoke, beginning with a nod to Neher, whose latest book she described as a useful reference for her own teaching of Southeast Asian history. “It helped me understand more of my own region,” the Princess said with a broad smile. In the rest of her speech, the Princess described her efforts to foster the improvement of educational opportunities for children and adults in Thailand, beginning with projects in primary schools in remote areas, and her lifelong interest in science education, technology advancements, and heritage preservation in Thailand. Immediately after the ceremony, the Princess and the platform party toured the “Tai Studies at Northern Illinois University” exhibit in Room 203 across the hall from the Auditorium. At a small reception later in the Board of Trustees room, the Princess visited freely with those in attendance before being escorted to a private luncheon. The Princess’s visit to NIU was covered by local media and appeared in newspapers nationwide via the Associated Press. It was also covered in Thai media. To see the ceremony in its entirety, see NIU Media Services’ video on YouTube; an article about the day’s events appears in NIU Today.

3. Too early to be thinking about next summer in SEA? Not at all!

Examine NGOs in Cambodia, Thailand and Vietnam. Explore cultural diversity in Thailand. Experience Balinese music, dance and culture in Indonesia. Learn Lao language and culture in Laos. Conduct clinical research on hearing loss in Cambodia or environmental research on public health in Indonesia. There are more choices than ever to study abroad in Southeast Asia next summer. NIU faculty will lead five of six study abroad programs to SEA offered through NIU’s Study Abroad Office.

- Trude Jacobsen (History) will take a group May 28–June 13 to Cambodia, Thailand and Vietnam to study the growth of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) in those countries. A new program, the course will look at how “development policy is imagined, produced, and received (or resisted) across multiple cultural contexts,” Jacobsen says.

- Jui-Ching Wang (School of Music) will introduce Balinese music, dance, theatre, architecture and crafts July 1–30 in her new program to Bali, Indonesia. “Students will experience these arts by interacting with the local people and gaining knowledge about the inseparable relationship of the arts, religion, and culture on Bali,” Wang says.

- Andrea Molnar (Anthropology) will reprise her 2012 program, “Cultural Diversity in Thailand,” May 16–June 14 in Thailand. Molnar’s program will introduce students to Thai culture and diversity, and examine the relationship between the dominant majority and minorities of the country.

- Tomoyuki Shibata (College of Health & Human Sciences) returns to Indonesia June 1–21 to continue research activities on environmental factors and public health. Past program projects have examined the effect of indoor air quality or mothers’ behaviors on children’s health.

- King Chung (School of Allied Health & Communicative Disorders) is conducting a group June 1–14 to Cambodia for “Heart of Hearing Program in Cambodia,” a program to help students develop their clinical skills by working with hearing-impaired individuals and helping facilitate locally based programs.

- Study Abroad in Laos (SAIL), a program offered through the Center for Lao Studies in San Francisco and with credit from NIU, will run June 27–July 31. Based in Vientiane,
Laos, the program offers students language and cultural lessons as well as exposure to Lao history and culture.

For more information about studying abroad, the Study Abroad office holds Study Abroad 101 at 3:30 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays in 417 Williston. There also will be a workshop at 5:30 p.m. Oct. 10 in 300 DuSable on different avenues for finding money to study abroad.

4. Register by Sept. 30 for October COTS conference
The deadline to register for the Oct. 18–19 Council on Thai Studies (COTS) conference at NIU is coming up Sept. 30. Thai scholars will be meeting and greeting at the Barsema Alumni and Visitors Center during the weekend. The conference will lead off with a lecture Oct. 18 by NIU alumnus Srisompob Jitpiromsri, director of the Center for Conflict Studies and Cultural Diversity at Prince of Songkla University in Pattani, Thailand. His talk will be “The Formation of Peace Discourse and the Politics of Recognition in the Patani Peace Process.” (While at NIU for the conference, Jitpiromsri is also accepting a Distinguished Alumni award from the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences.) The keynote speaker Oct. 19 will be University of Leeds professor of Southeast Asian politics Duncan McCargo. His talk will be “Dispensing Justice? The Work of Thai Police Investigators.” Conference registration is free; register now on the COTS website and help the organizers get a count. Reservations for rooms at the Holmes Student Center must be made by Sept. 27. Conference organizers include CSEAS associates John Hartmann (Foreign Languages and Literatures), Julia Lamb (CSEAS), Chalermsee Olson (Founders Library), Grant Olson (Foreign Languages and Literatures, COTS 2013 chair), and Danny Unger (Political Science). COTS, which was founded at NIU in 1972, is an informal organization of scholars interested in all aspects of Thai studies.

5. Registration open for upcoming Midwest Conference on Asian Affairs
Michigan State University in East Lansing, Mich., is hosting the 62nd Midwest Conference on Asian Affairs Oct. 25–27. The conference, the Midwestern affiliate of the Association for Asian Studies, is the largest such regional AAS meeting. Associate Trude Jacobsen (History), the conference’s Southeast Asia representative, will lead and present on the panel “The Past in Burma’s (Gendered) Present: Historicizing Intersectionality in Myanmar.” The Center is organizing group transport. Conference registration, which includes Saturday evening banquet and one-year MCAA membership, is $65 for students; $85 for faculty, professionals and independent scholars. For details, see the conference website.

6. Save the dates: Exploring Majors Fair this week

7. Alumni news: Acclimating quickly

Piyathida “Pooh” Sereebenjapol (PhD instructional technology, 2013) is jumping right into her new job as Thai instructor at the University of Leeds in England. In addition to language teaching, she has been asked to coordinate Leeds’ year-abroad in Thailand program, which will be based at Chiang Mai University. . . . Patrick McCormick (MA political science, 2000) begins working for the Ecole francaise d’Extreme-Orient in Yangon month. He reviewed Michael and Maitrii Aung-Thwin’s new book, A History of Myanmar since Ancient Times: Traditions and Transformations (Reaktion Books, 2012) for The New Mandala online journal in July.

8. Burnish your resumé: Sign up for SEA Studies minor or grad concentration

Adding a minor to an undergraduate degree or a graduate concentration to an advanced degree can pull a resumé up to the top of the pile. To learn about NIU’s Southeast Asian Studies programs, visit the CSEAS website or stop by Pottenger House, 520 College View Court. Undergraduates may make an appointment with Outreach Coordinator Julie Lamb at jlam@niu.edu; graduate students should contact Assistant Director Eric Jones at eaajones@niu.edu.

9. Boren, Blakemore Freeman programs offer funding for advanced SEA language study

David L. Boren awards provide unique and substantial funding opportunities for U.S. undergraduate and graduate students to study Southeast Asian languages among other less commonly taught languages (see list). Applications for the 2014–15 Boren scholarships (for undergraduates) and fellowships (for graduate students) are now available on the Boren website. Undergraduate students can receive up to $20,000 for an academic year’s study abroad and graduate students up to $30,000 for language study and international research. In exchange for funding, recipients commit to working in the federal government for a minimum of one year. For application help, see Anne Seitzinger at the Study Abroad office, 417 Williston Hall (email her at aseitz@niu.edu). Graduate fellowship applications are due to the Boren office by Jan. 28; undergraduate scholarship applications are due Feb. 5.

The Blakemore Foundation makes grants for the advanced study of selected Southeast Asian languages—Burmese, Indonesian, Khmer, Thai and Vietnamese—by scholars and mid-career professionals. Applications for the 2014 Blakemore Freeman fellowships and Blakemore refresher grants are now being accepted. The grants cover tuition and stipend, educational expenses, living costs and transportation. Candidates must be U.S. citizens with an undergraduate degree pursuing a professional, business, technical or academic career that involves the regular use of a Southeast Asian language. For more information, see the Blakemore Foundation website. The deadline to apply is Dec. 30.
