1. This week’s lecture: Reverse glass painting in Myanmar

The Center’s spring lecture series will be back in action at noon this Friday, Feb. 19, in Room 100 Campus Life Building with CSEAS associate and Center for Burma Studies Director Catherine Raymond and graduate student Carmin Berchiolly. Raymond and Berchiolly will discuss the origin and the art of reverse glass painting in mainland Southeast Asia and share their discovery of a small village in northern Burma where this vanishing art survives in the work of artist Ko Shan. Their research project is part of collaborative project implemented last summer with faculty and students at Yadanabon University, which is working with NIU to train a new generation of Burmese students interested in art, archaeology and anthropology. To order an Indonesian lunch, submit an online request by 6 p.m. Thursday at CSEAS Brown Bag Order. Orders must be cancelled online by 10 a.m. Friday. Cost is $5 for students and $6 for faculty, staff and others. Payments may be made in cash or by check. For lunch details, e-mail cseasbrownbag@gmail.com.

2. Center associates update: Peak experiences

Kurt Thurmaier (Public Administration) topped his experience climbing Africa’s highest peak, Mount Kilimanjaro, four years ago by doing it again Jan. 30. Thurmaier, who is currently on sabbatical, made the trek to raise $50,000 for his non-profit group Tanzania Development Support, which builds schools in the country.

Susan Russell (Anthropology) and Robert Zerwekh (Computer Science), who both officially retired from NIU in December, also tripped the altitude fantastic climbing up to Maccu Picchu while visiting friends in Peru this month. Visiting the 15th-century Incan citadel in the Andes Mountains has been on Russell’s bucket list for a long time, she said before leaving for the trip.
Jui-Ching Wang (School of Music) took NIU’s Chinese Music Ensemble to the new DeKalb Public Library building Feb. 10 to perform a medley of melodies in honor of the Year of the Monkey. The event was free and drew about 30 people with music and dragon dance. This is the third year the 15-person ensemble has given a Chinese New Year performance for the community.

Assistant Director Eric Jones (History) is warming up the microphone for a forthcoming CSEAS podcast series, a new project at Pottenger House. Assisted by undergraduate sociology student and videographer Brandon Woodhouse, Jones has put together a studio set-up in his second-floor office and is soliciting guests to be interviewed about all things Southeast Asia: language, culture, politics, history, music. Contact Jones at iloveroti@gmail.com if you have suggestions or want to get involved. And stay tuned for further developments!

Kenton Clymer (History) presented “A Delicate Relationship: The United States and Burma/Myanmar since 1945” Feb. 12 at UCLA’s Center for Southeast Asian Studies. He’ll be giving a similar talk Feb. 18 at UC-Riverside.

Alan Potkin (CSEAS adjunct) was at Humboldt State University in Arcata, Calif., Jan. 25 to present “Visualizing Hydropower and Interbasin Transfer Schemes in the Mekong River Basin” at the HSU River Institute Seminar. Potkin’s presentation entailed interactive visualization of hydropower development in Southeast Asia and Southwest China.

3. Become a student researcher for Karen oral history project

The Pick Museum of Anthropology is seeking undergraduate students to join a research team as full-time paid interns working on an oral history project documenting the experiences of Burmese Karen refugees living in northern Illinois. Students must live on campus during the June 13–Aug. 5 program. Contact Rachel Drochter at rdrochter@niu.edu or call 815-753-2011.

4. International Burma Studies Conference 2016 set for October at NIU

Scholars from around the world will convene at NIU Oct. 7–9 for the International Burma Studies Conference 2016. The conference invites proposals for individual papers or entire panels. Deadline to submit proposals: April 15. Prospective participants must submit a title and 150–250 word abstract via attached Word document or pasted into an email (include name, affiliation, and contact information). Panel organizers should submit abstracts and participant information. Email to burmastudies2016@gmail.com. Accepted participants and panel organizers will be notified on or before May 15. For details, see the conference website.

5. Distance Vietnamese to be added to fall 2016 SEA language lineup

Beginning Vietnamese will be added to NIU’s SEA language and literature lineup in fall 2016. FLST 103-104 will be offered as a distance-learning course through the University of Wisconsin-Madison.
It will be taught by a UW instructor but NIU students will receive credit from NIU. If interested, contact CSEAS Director Judy Ledgerwood at 815-753-1771 or by email at cseas@niu.edu (put Vietnamese in the subject line).

6. Call for papers: Spring Southeast Asia Student Conference

The Southeast Asia Club invites papers from undergraduate and graduate students for its 2016 spring Southeast Asia Student conference Saturday, March 26, in Room 100 Campus Life. The conference theme is “From City to Village: Urbanization & Southeast Asia.” Papers may be submitted on related topics or any relevant to the region. Abstracts are due Feb. 25. The keynote speaker will be University of Leeds political scientist Duncan McCargo.

7. The match game: Apply for CSEAS match to Graduate School travel funding

CSEAS will match up to $250 in Graduate School travel grants for students traveling to out-of-town (or out-of-country) conferences to present. If you will be receiving Graduate School travel funding, contact CSEAS Office Manager Rita Miller about the CSEAS match. If you are considering applying (next 2015–16 deadline is March 21), you must have completed one year of school with 3.5 GPA or above. See Graduate School website for details on its travel funding; submit applications to Dean, Graduate School, 223 Adams Hall.

8. SEAYLP and PYLP want you: Be a host family for spring SEA exchange programs

CSEAS and the International Training Office (ITO) are actively seeking host families for two spring Southeast Asia exchange programs sponsored by the US State Department. CSEAS is looking for 33 families to act as hosts April 9–17 for fifty high school students and ten adult leaders from ten Southeast Asian countries participating in the April 5–30 session of the US State Department’s Southeast Asia Youth Leadership Program (SEAYLP). Students are placed in pairs and adults may be placed as singles. Host families provide a bed for each participant, breakfast each day and most dinners, all meals during any weekend days at home, and transportation to and from class sessions at NIU. Host family orientation is scheduled for 6:30 to 8 p.m. Monday, April 4, in the Holmes Student Center. Host family applications may be submitted online; see the right column on the SEAYLP website. Applications due by March 18. For details, contact host family coordinator Liz Denius at 815-753-1901 or email edenius@niu.edu.

ITO is also seeking host families in April for the Philippine Youth Leadership Program (PYLP), which brings young people and adult leaders from the Autonomous Region of Muslim Mindanao and surrounding provinces in the Philippines to NIU for four weeks under the auspices of the
