Summer Research Opportunities Program (SROP)

The Summer Research Opportunities Program (SROP) gives NIU undergraduate students the opportunity to conduct paid, faculty-mentored, research during the summer months. Participating in SROP allows students to connect with faculty mentors and apply classroom learning in the lab or field.

In SROP, students will:
- Learn what research looks like in their field of study
- Learn how to write a formal research proposal
- Gain experience working alongside talented faculty
- Attend professional and academic enrichment activities
- Receive room and board* and a $3500 stipend (*participants must live in provided on-campus housing)

Students eligible to participate:
- Are full-time undergraduate students at NIU
- Are sophomores, juniors, or seniors (not graduating in August)
- Have a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher
- Have a declared major
- Are committed to participate for eight weeks (June 13-August 5, 2016)
- Are not enrolled in summer courses during SROP

Applications are due by February, 26, 2016.
