Presidential Teaching Professor Seminar

Learning Through Experience: Using the Five Senses to Increase Musical Awareness

Robert Chappell
Presidential Teaching Professor
School of Music

In the musical arts, different senses are involved in the learning and understanding of the aural, visual, and spatial dimensions of music. This presentation will focus on incorporating all of the senses in musical learning and will culminate with the audience performing on instruments Professor Chappell has gathered from different parts of the world.

Thursday, February 14, 2008
Capitol Room, Holmes Student Center
11:30 am – 12:00 pm, Refreshments
12:00-1:00 pm, Presentation and Q&A

No registration is required—Everyone is welcome!

Sponsored by Office of the Provost & Faculty Development and Instructional Design Center