Situational Factors to Consider

1. Specific Context of the Teaching/Learning Situation
   How many students are in the class? Is the course lower division, upper division, or graduate level? How long and frequent are the class meetings? How will the course be delivered: live, online, or in a classroom or lab? What physical elements of the learning environment will affect the class?

2. General Context of the Learning Situation
   What learning expectations are placed on this course or curriculum by: the university, college and/or department? The profession? Society?

3. Nature of the Subject
   Is this subject primarily theoretical, practical, or a combination? Is the subject primarily convergent or divergent? Are there important changes or controversies occurring within the field?

4. Characteristics of the Learners
   What is the life situation of the learners (e.g., working, family, professional goals)? What prior knowledge, experiences, and initial feelings do students usually have about this subject? What are their learning goals, expectations, and preferred learning styles?

5. Characteristics of the Teacher
   What beliefs and values does the teacher have about teaching and learning? What is his/her attitude toward: the subject? Students? What level of knowledge or familiarity does s/he have with this subject? What are his/her strengths in teaching?
