The PURE Initiative

PASCAL is an international organization that promotes the exchange of best practice research, ideas and policies focused on place management, social capital, and the creation of learning regions. PASCAL links government with higher education to stimulate regional innovation.

PASCAL, an outgrowth of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), is administered by Northern Illinois University, the Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology (Australia), and the University of Glasgow (Scotland).

The PASCAL University Regional Engagement (PURE) project involves several international regions focused on regional development, social inclusion and citizenship, creative and cultural industries, green skills, innovative higher education systems, and sustaining rural and remote communities.
