- Vice president for administration and finance. Lisa Freeman is chairing this search.
- John Cheney has been named the interim to oversee facilities.

The President and Executive Vice President and Provost Lisa Freeman have received a draft report from the Diversity Task Force. This task force examined best practices around the country and has offered excellent recommendations. This report as well as the report from the Violence Against Women Task Force will be available soon.
The President and Executive Vice President and Provost attended the Association of Public and Land Grant Universities Conference. The Violence Against Women Act and how universities are addressing this was discussed. It is clear NIU is ahead of almost all the other schools in the country.

NIU PLUS – Progressive Learning in Undergraduate Studies – [presentation] – Pages 3-45
A. Birberick and J. Stafstrom provided a brief update on the PLUS program. PLUS is a very large, comprehensive program. It incorporates changes to the current general education program as well as changes to NIU’s baccalaureate requirements. One of the concerns that has been expressed on multiple occasions and in multiple forms is the implementation process. There will be some changes that will occur and be recorded in the 2015/2016 undergraduate catalog, and then there will be more that will take place in the 2016/2017 catalog. It’s going to be a process that unfolds over a period of time. Pathways will need to be initiated and an RFP that will provide funding for faculty to work with one another and to create the pathways is forthcoming.

L. Freeman presented an update on the academic and administrative program prioritizing process. The steering committee has met once. A website with FAQs is being created and information will come forward as it emerges. The need for a data support team has been identified. One of the first components is to decide on what type of criteria are important to us at NIU and reflects our culture, our values, our mission, and our plans. And the process for choosing those criteria and weighting them will be a very inclusive one. This process for creating the criteria has not been identified, but it will be a very faculty-driven process and very respectful of shared governance. Criteria will be circulated, feedback collected through a formalized and inclusive process and the faculty and staff committees of Resource, Space and Budget and Academic Planning Council will have the ultimate task of assembling the feedback and recommending criteria to the president.

J. Cheney discussed the athletic facilities master plan. The plan totaled an estimated $138,000,000. The intent is to privately fundraise and the rest would be based off revenue generation because the expansion in seating and the premium seating areas will generate income. The timeline is really not set; it will be based on how the campaign goes.

VI. REPORTS FROM COUNCILS, BOARDS AND STANDING COMMITTEES

P. Stoddard identified the main issues discussed at the meeting: 1) updates from the provost and the president of Governor’s State; 2) academic freedom and shared governance issues resulting from the Salatia case at University of Illinois Champaign Urbana; and 3) Chicago State University’s issues with the administration and their governing board that has now dismissed the Faculty Senate.

K. Student Association – Joe Frascello, President – report

J. Frascello articulated a student concern regarding the cost for students to have their organizations’ events held at the student center. Strong student organizations with active members are attractive to current and potential students. Although many student organizations are on campus, only a few are thriving. This may be because organizations are not able to utilize their campus in an effective way to attract new members. Or perhaps it is because many student organizations are prevented from hosting events on campus, particularly the Holmes Student Center, because the food costs are too expensive for them to afford. This semester alone $12,000 has been allocated to student groups, the majority goes toward food costs to host organizational events. This does not appear to be an effective use of student funds. The Student Association hopes that the university can find a way to make events more affordable for student organizations.

The S.A. hosted a round table discussion at Neptune Central for the “It’s on Us” campaign. Representatives from all over the university attended. The campaign’s goals are to recognize that non-consensual sex is sexual assault; to identify situations in which sexual assault might occur; to intervene in situations where consent has not or cannot be given; and to create an environment in which sexual assault is unacceptable and survivors are supported. The week of action is November 17 through the 21.

B. Donovan, the director of governmental affairs, presented the students perspective on the Enterprise Zone from DeKalb City Council last week. One particular part of this that emerged was the dredging the east lagoon to make the Kishwaukee River not flood the John Street area so it would be more attractive to businesses. The S.A. stated publically here at University Council that the Student Association is not necessarily opposed to alteration of the lagoon, but any Student Association support of alteration would require a very compelling argument. Furthermore, the S.A. believes that, if any alteration occurs, it must not compromise the integrity and intent of the lagoon because this area is vital to student, university, and community activities.
