1. Spring lecture series: Feb. 19, March 19, April 16

Mark your calendars for spring’s virtual CSEAS Graduate Colloquium Lecture Series, starting Feb. 19 with ethnomusicologist Shzr Ee Tan of at Royal Holloway University of London. Tan will present “Internet Sonorities of Transient Labour in Singapore/Southeast Asia” via Microsoft Teams. Tan’s research interests are impact-based issues of music and decolonization, aspirational cosmopolitanism and race discourses in music around the world toward examining marginality through the lenses of intersectionality. This past June, she co-organized the webinar Orchestrating Isolation: Musical Interventions and Inequality in the COVID-19 Fallout. On March 19 historian and NIU alumnus Michael Hawkins, chair of the History Department at Creighton University, will present Sensational Savages: Marketing the Moro Village at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904.” Hawkins’ lecture will also be virtual via Microsoft Teams. Hawkins, a former Fulbright fellow in the Philippines, focuses his research on empire, Islam and agency in Asia with a particular interest in notions of historical time. He will also be the keynote speaker March 20 for the 2021 Spring Southeast Asian Studies Student Conference (see below). The spring lecture series will conclude April 16 with Shorna Allred, associate professor in Cornell University’s Department of Natural Resources and the Environment, who will present “Cultural Resilience in Borneo.” Allred’s research blends human factors and natural sciences with the goal of improving resource management and conservation. Her lecture, cohosted by the NIU Department of Geographic and Atmospheric Sciences, will focus on her research into the cultural resilience of the Penan hunter-gather peoples who have lived in the Borneo rainforest for generations but whose culture and way of life are now experiencing environmental and development pressures. CSEAS thanks the NIU Graduate Colloquium for its help in funding the spring series.

2. Abstracts due Jan. 31 for 2021 Spring SEA Studies Student Conference

The Southeast Asia Club invites papers from both graduate and undergraduate students for its 2021 Southeast Asia Student Conference Saturday, March 20, a virtual event via Microsoft Teams. Papers may be submitted from any discipline on a topic pertaining to Southeast Asia; Deadline for 250-word abstracts: Sunday, Jan. 31. Final papers due Friday, March 1. Email inquiries or abstracts to niuseaclub@gmail.com (please put “Abstract” in the subject line). Best paper awards will be given for undergraduate and graduate papers. The keynote speaker will be Creighton University historian and NIU alumnus Michael Hawkins. A former Fulbright Fellow to the Philippines and NIU alumnus, Hawkins is the author of Making Moros: Imperial Historicism and American Military Rule in the Philippine Muslim South (Northern Illinois University Press, 2012) and Semi-Civilized: The Moro Village at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition (Cornell University Press). The NIU Graduate Colloquium is co-sponsoring Hawkins’ visit to NIU; he will also be presenting a talk in the Spring CSEAS Graduate Colloquium Lecture Series March 19 (also via Microsoft Teams).
3. Two FLAS opportunities, one application, one deadline
Whether you’re applying for a summer 2020 or an academic-year 2021–22 FLAS fellowship, or both, you can apply for a Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) fellowship with one application. The application and all information on both summer and academic-year FLAS awards are posted on the CSEAS website. The deadline to apply is Jan. 15. The U.S. Department of Education’s Title VI Program of Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships funds FLAS fellowships. Summer FLAS fellowships provide for the summer study of Southeast Asian languages at any U.S. Department of Education-approved educational institution, especially those in Southeast Asia, but also including the Southeast Asian Studies Summer Institute June 14 to Aug. 6 at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. As with summer 2020, travel restrictions may limit summer FLAS study to the SEASSI option. Questions? Contact Assistant CSEAS Director Kheang Un at kun1@niu.edu. The U.S. Department of Education funds FLAS fellowships.

4. Applications open: Clark and Arlene Neher Graduate Fellowship
U.S. and international graduate students are invited to apply for the Center’s 2021–22 Clark and Arlene Neher Graduate Fellowship for the Study of Southeast Asia. The fellowship includes a tuition waiver and a $5,000 annual stipend. 8. CSEAS expands its podcast offerings

Now there are two good reasons to tune into CSEAS podcasts: Napalm in the Morning, an exploration of films dealing with the Vietnam War, has joined the Center’s wide-ranging podcast series, Southeast Asia Crossroads. In the latest Crossroads episode, “A Special Relationship: The United States and the Philippines Military,” host Eric Jones speaks with historian Mesrob Vartavarian about how the rise of Philippine President Rodrigo Duterte fits with the history of military elites and oligarchy in the Philippines. Southeast Asia Crossroads’ following has grown to more than 37,400 listens since its 2016 debut with listeners in 70 countries; topics range from history and politics to art and culture. Since its June 1 debut, Napalm in the Morning, also hosted by Jones and Jagel, has examined six Vietnam films (Full Metal Jacket, Rambo First Blood, Platoon, Coming Home, Good Morning Vietnam, and We Were Soldiers), and features a conversation with Dave Luhrssen, author of The Vietnam War on Film (ABC-CLIO, 2019), in its most recent episode.

9. Burnish your résumé with Southeast Asian Studies

Add a Southeast Asian Studies minor to a bachelor’s degree or a graduate certificate to an advanced degree and pull your résumé to the top of the pile. Visit the CSEAS website or stop by CSEAS at 520
College View Court. Undergraduates should contact adviser Matt Jagel at mjagel2@niu.edu; graduate students should contact Assistant Director Kheang Un at kun1@niu.edu.

10. Two new books in NIU/Cornell Southeast Asia Series
Cornell University Press, where NIU Press has been an imprint since 2019, has released two new books in the NIU Southeast Asia Series. The Saigon Sisters: Privileged Women in the Resistance, by Patricia D. Norland, was released in July. The book traces the lives of nine Vietnamese women who grew up in a French lycée and later fought for independence beginning with the French occupation of Vietnam through the Second Vietnamese War’s end in 1975. “The Saigon Sisters is a rare glimpse into the experience of young women during the Vietnamese Revolution, the Vietnam War, and communist Vietnam,” writes California Polytechnic State University historian Christina Firpo. “This book is a valuable contribution to women’s history as well as twentieth-century Vietnamese history.”

Semi-Civilized: The Moro Village at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, by Creighton University historian and CSEAS alumnus Michael C. Hawkins (PhD history, 2009), was released in March. Hawkins’ book examines Moro (Filipino Muslim) contributions to the 1904 St. Louis World’s Fair, challenging the manifestations of “empire” at the event and in American discourse at the time. “There has not been a critical assessment of the Moro villages at the important 1904 World’s Fair, and this book promises to bring such study into the scholarly record,” writes University of North Carolina’s Timothy Marr about the book.
