1. This week’s lecture: Studying Myanmar through food NEW

CSEAS associate and Burmese language professor Tharaphi Than will present “Studying Myanmar through Food: Challenging Paradigms and Connecting Universities and Communities” at noon Friday, Sept. 28, in Campus Life 100. Than’s talk will focus on two different projects she conducted with students from National Chengchi University in Taiwan and Yangon University in Myanmar. Through the lens of food—be it a Burmese tea or mohinga (fish noodle soup) – her students learned about Burmese culture and history through the people who produce and sell food in Burmese communities in the two countries. In honor of this week’s lecture, chef Ken Fleming is making mohinga for lunch. To order, submit an online request by 6 p.m. Thursday at CSEAS Brown Bag Order. To cancel an order, you must do so online by 10 a.m. Friday. Cost is $5 for students and $6 for faculty, staff and others. Payments may be made in cash or by check. For details, e-mail cseasbrownbag@gmail.com.

2. Students invited to apply for advanced Thai language scholarships NEW Advanced Thai language students (beyond first-year Thai) are invited to apply for two 2018–19 scholarships from the Thai Teaching and Research Endowment Fund through the NIU Foundation. The $2,000 scholarship is disbursed $1,000 per semester. Eligible students should be pursuing study of Thai language, culture, history or politics, have a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher, and demonstrate a focus on the study of Thailand. Deadline to apply is Oct. 15. Applicants should submit a one-page statement of interest, a letter from their Thai language professor, a letter of recommendation and a copy of their transcript electronically to Thai language professor Kanjana Thepboriruk at kanjana@niu.edu. The Royal Thai government established the endowment to support Thai teaching and research initiatives at NIU.

3. ASEAN delegation to visit NIU Oct. 2 NEW

An Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) delegation of eight officials and academic researchers will visit NIU Oct. 2. CSEAS associate and ASEAN specialist Aarie Glas (Political Science) and CSEAS will host an informal meet-and-greet with the group from 2:30 to 4 p.m. in the Marshall Gallery in Swen Parson Hall. The NIU event is part of a U.S. Department of State-sponsored visit to Chicago to learn about U.S.-Asia foreign policy objectives, refugee and migration challenges and other issues important to the region. For more information, contact CSEAS at cseas@niu.edu.

4. What’s happening at COTS 2018 NEW

The Council on Thai Studies has released its draft schedule for its upcoming annual meeting Oct. 12–14 in Ingraham Hall at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The conference opens at noon Oct. 12 with the keynote lecture by Puangthong Pawakapan (Chulalongkorn University and the Harvard-Yenching Institute), who will present “Development and Impact of the Thai Military’s Political Offensive.” Afternoon panel topics are Capital and Regulation and Resistance and Difference Across Language and Margins. The evening panels are Military, Democracy and the Place of Politics and The Cold War: Secrets, Spirits and Kings. Saturday’s program begins at 9 a.m. with the panel Queering Gender: Media, Society and History, followed by panels on Space and Politics in Northern Thailand; Military Dictatorship, Promised Elections and the Future of Democracy; the Construction and Reproduction of Nationalism; and Religious Devotion, Repression and Re-imagination. An optional brunch will close out the conference on Sunday. For details, email conference organizer Tyrell Haberkorn at tyrell.haberkorn@wisc.edu.

5. Notes from all over

Former CSEAS Director Michael Aung-Thwin, professor of Asian Studies at University of Hawaii-Manoa, has been awarded the 2018–19 George E. Bogaars Professorship in History at the National University of Singapore. As a visiting professor, he will teach the history of Myanmar and present a public lecture on the importance of Eurasians in the study and development of Southeast Asian studies.

. .Speaking of Hawaii, water in Southeast Asia—from conservation politics to fisheries to public participation for sustainability of water resources—is the theme of the latest issue of Explorations, the graduate student journal of Southeast Asian Studies published by UH-Manoa. Check it out.

6. Module 2 scheduled for distance Burmese class

Burmese language professor Tharaphi Than is offering beginning Burmese as a non-credit distance class through CSEAS this fall. Module 1 will run Sept. 27 to Dec. 6. Module 2 will run Jan. 27 to March 28. Completion of modules 1 and 2 is the equivalent of one-year beginning Burmese taught at NIU. After taking both modules, community college students who intend to transfer to NIU, are eligible to apply for Foreign Language and Area Studies fellowships through CSEAS. For more details, contact Than at tthan@niu.edu.

8. Southeast Asia Crossroads: Check out our latest podcast

CSEAS is marking nearly 9,000 listens of our Southeast Asia Crossroads podcast series since its debut in September 2016. In our latest conversation, host Eric Jones discusses “Microbes, ‘Borneo Mud’ and Antibiotic Resistance” with Waubonsee Community College biologist Sheela Vemu. With Southeast Asia being one of the most biodiverse places on the planet, Vemu details the discovery of a compound 50 years ago in Borneo that is now one of the most often-used antibiotics in medicine.
and its implications for ethno-pharmacology today. Our following keeps growing around the world with listeners in 70 countries as we cover topics from history and politics to art and culture.

9. Apply online for graduate conference travel

The Graduate School is inviting degree-seeking graduate students in good academic standing to submit travel grant proposals for the 2018–19 academic year. Students invited to present results of their original research or creative activity at a professional may submit a proposal for matching funding through their department to the Graduate School; students must secure $200 to $500 in department or college funding in order to secure the matching funds from the Graduate School. Apply online by any of three rolling deadlines (Oct. 15, Jan. 15 and March 15). Apply online.

10. Burnish your resumé with Southeast Asian Studies

Add a Southeast Asian Studies minor to a bachelor’s degree or a graduate certificate to an advanced degree and pull your resumé to the top of the pile.
