1. Friday lecture series resumes Jan. 24 NEW

The 2019–20 CSEAS Friday lecture series resumes at noon Friday, Jan. 24, in Campus Life 100 with Northwestern University political scientist Kim Marion Suiseeya’s presentation, “The Justice Gap in Global Forest Governance: Evidence from Laos.” Trained as an interdisciplinary environmental social scientist, Suiseeya specializes in global environmental politics and political ecology. Her book manuscript, The Justice Gap in Global Forest Governance, explores the politics of justice and representation in global forest and climate governance and its impacts on forest dependent communities in Laos. Suiseeya holds a PhD in Environment from Duke University, an MA in International Environmental Policy from the Monterey Institute of International Studies, and a BA in International Relations/Politics and German Studies from Scripps College. She also has extensive experience as a practitioner, including stints in the Peace Corps, with the International Union for the Conservation of Nature, and on World Bank-funded projects. Drawing on extensive ethnographic, interview, and archival data from Laos and five sites of global forest governance (including the Conventions on Biological Diversity and Climate Change) for her lecture, Suiseeya traces the emergence, evolution, and diffusion of global justice norms as they reach into the daily lives of five forest communities in Laos. To order an Indonesian lunch, submit an online request by 6 p.m. Wednesday at CSEAS Brown Bag Order. To cancel an order, you must do so online by 10 a.m. Friday. Cost is $5 for students and $7 for faculty, staff and others. You may pay in cash or by check at the lecture. For lunch details, e-mail cseasbrownbag@gmail.com. All lectures are free and open to the public; see the complete spring lecture schedule.

2. Abstracts due Jan. 31 for Spring SEA Studies Student Conference

The Southeast Asia Club is inviting papers for its 2020 Southeast Asia Student Conference, Nexus: Southeast Asia, which is set for Saturday, April 18, at the Holmes Student Center. Papers may be submitted from any discipline on a topic pertaining to Southeast Asia; Deadline for abstracts: Jan. 31. Final papers are due Friday, March 15. Email inquiries or abstracts to niuseaclub@gmail.com (please put student conference in the subject). Best paper awards will be given for undergraduate and graduate papers. The keynote speaker will be Creighton University historian and NIU alumnus Michael Hawkins. A former Fulbright Fellow to the Philippines and NIU alumnus, Hawkins is the author of Making Moros: Imperial Historicism and American Military Rule in the Philippine Muslim South (Northern Illinois University Press, 2012) and the forthcoming Semi-Civilized: The Moro Village at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition (Cornell University Press). The NIU Graduate Colloquium is co-sponsoring Hawkins’ visit to NIU.

3. See updates to spring SEA course list NEW

SEAS 490/590, Pick Museum of Anthropology Curation and Exhibition Internship, is now on CSEAS’ spring class list. - Cambodia: Cambodian Culture and Civilization, June 8–26, is an immersive three-week program offering a global and cultural perspective on rural and urban cultures in Cambodia. You will spend two weeks in Siem Reap and one week in the capital city of Phnom Penh, including the Angkor Wat temple complex in Siem Reap, Buddhist temples, and Cambodian Genocide historical sites. You will attend lectures on politics, sociology, language, the environment, archaeology and culture and dance at the Center for Khmer Studies in Siem Reap. The program also includes service learning, meaningful community engagement and immersion in Khmer culture. Undergraduate and graduate courses offered include SEAS 225, SEAS 590, and INTL 201 and 501; six hours credit. Deadline to apply: March 1. On-site directors are sociologist Kathleen Westman and Sauk
Valley Community College political science professor Paul Edleman. For more information, contact Westman at kwestman911@gmail.com.

6. Two FLAS opportunities, one application, one deadline: Jan 15
Whether you’re applying for a summer 2020 or an academic-year 2020–21 FLAS fellowship, or both, you can apply for a Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) fellowship with one application. The application and all information on both summer and academic-year FLAS awards are posted on the CSEAS website. The deadline for both summer FLAS grants and academic-year FLAS fellowships is Jan. 15. The U.S. Department of Education’s Title VI Program of Foreign Language and Area Studies funds FLAS fellowships. Summer FLAS fellowships provide for the summer study of Southeast Asian languages at any U.S. Department of Education-approved educational institution, especially those in Southeast Asia, but also including the Southeast Asian Studies Summer Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Questions? Contact Assistant CSEAS Director Jui-Ching Wang at jcwang@niu.edu. The U.S. Department of Education funds FLAS fellowships.

7. Deadline Jan. 15 to apply for Neher fellowship, King scholarship
U.S. and international graduate students are invited to apply for the Center’s 2020–21 Clark and Arlene Neher Graduate Fellowship for the Study of Southeast Asia and (international students only) the 2020–21 Dwight Y. King Graduate Scholarship for the Study of Indonesia. The Neher fellowship includes a tuition waiver and a $5,000 annual stipend. To apply, you should be at an advanced stage in your master’s or doctoral program, and planning field or archival research in SEA studies. You must also be in good standing with NIU and demonstrate a commitment to career involving SEA Studies. International students pursuing advanced degrees involving substantial Indonesia research are invited to apply for the King scholarships. Applicants for this $1,000 award should be a student in good standing and at an advanced stage in their master’s or doctoral program. In keeping with King’s lifelong commitment to public affairs, preference given to students interested in working in developing countries. Application must include a personal statement, research proposal, PDF of graduate transcript and a letter of recommendation. For details on both funding opportunities, see CSEAS website.

8. Sign up now for spring non-credit distance Indonesian class
You can sign up to take Indonesian language professor Rahmi Aoyama’s 10-week beginning Indonesian distance class this semester through CSEAS; just register and indicate spring on the registration form. No prior knowledge of the language is required for this non-credit class that will begin the second week of February. Instruction will be live and conducted by Aoyama.
