1. This week’s lecture: In defense of animistic cognition in SEA

Columbia College-Chicago Philosophy Professor Stephen Asma will present “Animism and Cognition: Southeast Asia and Beyond” at noon Friday, Nov. 15, in Campus Life 100. In daily life, animistic beliefs and practices co-exist with mainstream religions in Southeast Asia. In his lecture, Asma will discuss some specific cases of animism in the region, arguing that animistic approaches to life and nature are not primitive modes of cognition, but instead remain highly adaptive for individuals and communities and reveal valid epistemologies. No Southeast Asian lunch this week.

2. Campus notes: Call for papers, alumna kudos, classroom snaps

The Southeast Asia Club announces its first call for papers for its 2020 Southeast Asian Studies Student Conference set for April 18 in the Holmes Student Center. Abstracts due Jan. 31. Undergraduate and graduate students in any discipline encouraged to submit on any Southeast Asia topic. Best paper awards will be given for both undergraduate and graduate papers. ... Nicole Loring (PhD political science, 2019) has received the Outstanding Dissertation Award for 2018–19 in the category of Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences and Education from the NIU Graduate School. Her dissertation, co-chaired by CSEAS associate Trude Jacobsen (History) and Associate Political Science Professor Michael Clark, focused on the transition from authoritarian to civilian rule in Myanmar. Loring, who will be honored at a Graduate School reception in April, is teaching international relations at NIU this semester. ... SEA language classes have been learning language through food the past couple weeks. On Oct. 29, Rhodalyne Gallo-Crail’s beginning Tagalog class participated in a “boodle fight,” diving into piles of rice, fruit, vegetables, fish and cooked meat spread down the middle of a long table. “The boodle fight itself is a fun way of mingling with others while enjoying the abundance of food on the table,” said Tagalog Foreign Language Teaching Assistant John Paul Dela Rosa. “That’s the Filipino way of fostering brotherhood and togetherness.” Meanwhile, in Rahmi Aoyama’s Nov. 6 intermediate Indonesian class, it was all about creating Nasi Tumpeng, a classic Indonesian dish featuring a tower of molded rice surrounded by vegetables, meat and other ingredients. Students Glynnis White, Dan McCoy, Eunji Won and Timothy Johnson, guided by Bahasa FLTAs Bunga Mastari and Ildi Kurniawan, created their artful repast in 306 Wirtz Hall. And apart from the language classes, the Southeast Asia Club also shared an SEA food experience with a Thai iced tea fund-raiser Nov. 5. Club members Adam Reedy, Jakob Daraban and Kristie Amstutz set up a table in the Wirtz Hall atrium with brewed Thai tea, sweetened condensed milk, ice, glasses and festive straws. The club will be selling tasty Thai tea again ($2 a glass) at the Nov. 22 Friday Brownbag Lecture.

3. Fill a space in your spring schedule with an SEAS class
Time to register for spring classes. New this spring for undergraduate and graduate students is ANTH 491/591, Urban Life in Asian Cities, taught by Anthropology instructor Matthew Trew. Graduate students are invited to sign up for SEAS 625, Great Readings in Southeast Asian Studies, which also will be taught by Trew, time and days to be determined. Also, Eric Jones (History) will be offering SEAS 590 (see online list below), which will study the Vietnam conflicts as historical events and through the lens of film. The Center’s foundational undergraduate class, SEAS 225, Southeast Asia: Crossroads of the World (instructor of record Jui-Ching Wang), is offered from 12:30 to 1:45 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays in DuSable 148.

Online offerings this spring include:
- HIST 346, Women in Asian History (Trude Jacobsen)
- HIST 390, Film and History (Eric Jones)
- POLS 384, Contemporary Foreign Policy (Xu Ke, associate professor, Xiamen University School of International Relations)
- SEAS 590, Advanced Topics in Interdisciplinary Studies (Eric Jones)

Students also will have an internship opportunity through the Political Science department in POLS 490, Internship in Southeast Asian Youth Leadership Programs (April Clark). The course allows students to apply what they have learned in the classroom while earning academic credit. Students will intern with one of two U.S. Department of State youth leadership programs run by CSEAS at NIU in spring: the Southeast Asia Youth Leadership Program (SEAYLP) and the Philippine Youth Leadership Program (PYLP).

In addition to our continuing SEA language classes in Burmese, Indonesian, Khmer, Tagalog and Thai, other spring SEA courses include:
- ARTH 701, Women in a Thousand Years of Buddhist Art in Southeast Asia (Catherine Raymond)
- POLS 285, Introduction to International Relations (Aarjen Glas)
- POLS 378, Political Islam (Kikue Hamayotsu)
- POLS 668, The Political Economy of Developing Areas (Kheang Un)
- POLS 682, Seminar in International Law and Organization (Aarjen Glas)
- MUHL 431/531, Music of Southeast Asia (Chamni Sripraram, instructor)
- MUSE 370/670, Gamelan I (Alex Yoffe, instructor).

4. Sign up now for non-credit distance Indonesian class next spring
You can sign up to take Indonesian language professor Rahmi Aoyama’s 10-week beginning Indonesian distance class in the spring through CSEAS; just register and indicate spring on the registration form. No prior knowledge of the language is required for this non-credit class that will begin the second week of February. Instruction will be live and conducted by Aoyama. Contact her at rhartati1@niu.edu for details.

5. SEA study abroad: Apply by Nov. 15 for supplemental CSEAS travel funding
NIU and CSEAS are offering three opportunities to study abroad for credit next summer in Thailand, Vietnam and Cambodia. The NIU Study Abroad office is in the process of posting registration and detailed program information for all three programs on its portal (Vietnam is up so far). Learn more about studying abroad at a Study Abroad 101 workshop, held at 3:30 p.m. once a week in 417 Williston. Also, check out funding for studying abroad with a supplemental travel grant from CSEAS (deadline to apply Nov. 15) or a Student Engagement Fund travel grant (deadline to apply Dec. 8). Contact engage@niu.edu. For details on these programs, email program directors, niuabroad@niu.edu, or CSEAS at cseas@niu.edu.

- Thailand: Humanitarian Aid, Sustainable Development and Refugee Studies Global Internship, June 1–July 26, is an interdisciplinary program that begins with one month of campus study in June, followed by a three-week internship experience in Bangkok and Chiang Mai July 5–26. The program is designed to allow you to broaden your field of study by exploring such topics as sustainability, social entrepreneurship, community development, diversity leadership, migration, curriculum design, public health and international/global relations among others. Courses offered are at both undergraduate and graduate levels: SEAS 490/590 and INTL 301/501; six hours credit. Deadline to apply: Feb. 1. For more information, contact program director Karla Findley at kfindley1@niu.edu.

- Vietnam: War and Peace in Vietnam, June 15–July 7, is a month-long program that includes six days of on-campus study before and after a 12-day study tour to Vietnam. Led by Associate History Professor Stanley Arnold, the program focuses on the American experience in Vietnam and examines the impact of the war on Vietnam, the region and the world. You will visit Hanoi, Hue, Ho Chi Minh City, Khe Sanh, My Lai and other historical sites, and interact with local communities. Three undergraduate and three graduate courses are offered: HIST 396, HIST 469, HIST 493, HIST 569, HIST 600 and HIST 736; six hours credit. Deadline to apply: Feb. 1. For details, contact Arnold at sarnold@niu.edu.

- Cambodia: Cambodian Culture and Civilization, June 8–26, is an immersive three-week program offering a global and cultural perspective on rural and urban cultures in Cambodia. You will spend two weeks in Siem Reap and one week in the capital city of Phnom Penh, including the Angkor Wat temple complex in Siem Reap, Buddhist temples, and Cambodian Genocide historical sites. You will attend lectures on politics, sociology, language, the environment, archaeology and culture and dance at the Center for Khmer Studies in Siem Reap. The program also includes service learning, meaningful community engagement and immersion in Khmer culture. Undergraduate and graduate courses offered include SEAS 225, SEAS 590, and INTL 201 and 501; six hours credit. Deadline to apply: March 1. On-site

6. Two FLAS opportunities, one application, one deadline
Whether you’re applying for a summer 2020 or an academic-year 2020–21 FLAS fellowship, or both, you can apply for a Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) fellowship with one application. The application and all information on both summer and academic-year FLAS awards are posted on the CSEAS website. The deadline for both summer FLAS grants and academic-year FLAS fellowships is Jan. 15. The U.S. Department of Education’s Title VI Program of Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships funds FLAS fellowships. Summer FLAS fellowships provide for the summer study of Southeast Asian languages at any U.S. Department of Education-approved educational institution, especially those in Southeast Asia, but also including the Southeast Asian Studies Summer Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Questions? Contact Assistant CSEAS Director Jui-Ching Wang at jcwang@niu.edu. The U.S. Department of Education funds FLAS fellowships.
