

QUILTS AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Open at the Pick Museum of Anthropology

September 5, 2017 – May 11, 2018

Enrich your classroom experience and reserve your group visit online at www.niu.edu/pick-museum

Questions? Contact Laura McDowell Hopper, Curator lmcdowellhopper@niu.edu or (815) 753-2011

EXHIBIT TOUR

Tours of “Quilts and Human Rights” can be tailored to individual classes to cover a wide range of topics including, but not limited to: activism, social justice, human rights, fiber arts, institutionalized racism, sexism, LGBTQ+ rights, Native American sovereignty, labor, anti-violence, and more. Depending on class size, tours can also include behind-the-scenes access to collections storage and a Q&A about museum careers.

SCAVENGER HUNT

20 question scavenger hunts are available for students to conduct in class or on their own time, and can be graded as a regular assignment or used as extra credit.

GROUP CURATORIAL PROJECT

Your students will learn about how museum curators develop and design exhibits, then work in teams to “curate” a new section, allowing students to creatively reinterpret the objects in exhibit.

OBJECT BASED LEARNING

Work with the Pick Museum’s curator to create a unique pull list of museum objects that your students can learn from in a safe, hands-on environment.

STUDENT ORGANIZATION EVENTS

The Pick Museum is always thrilled to stay open for student groups. If you advise a student group, make sure to contact the Pick Museum to ask how we can accommodate student activities!