This course provides first-year students in the University Honors Program guidance and resources to succeed at NIU and beyond. Students will be introduced to enhanced opportunities, while also learning how to be engaged and responsible citizens.

Highlights:

- 1) Introduction to academically enhanced opportunities
- 2) Building community at NIU through volunteering and developing civic engagement skills
- 3) Making meaningful connections with fellow students, Honors staff, and Honors faculty
- 4) Two credit course and will count as an Honors course towards Honors Program completion (subject to the B- minimum)
- 5) In course opportunities to earn Honors Engaged experiences

Sexualities: This course delves into the web of social, cultural, and historical factors that shape human sexual behaviors, identities, and norms. This course critically examines the social construction of sexuality, exploring topics such as sexual orientation, gender and sexual identities, sexual practices, and the social institutions that govern sexual behavior. Students will explore theoretical frameworks from classical sociologists to contemporary scholars, gaining insights into how power dynamics, social inequalities, and cultural values influence sexual attitudes and behaviors. Through discussions, readings, and case studies, students will analyze various aspects of sexuality, including sexual health, sexual rights, and the impact of technology and globalization on sexual cultures.

This course focuses on a selection of arts of India, China, Korea, parts of Southeast Asia and Japan from prehistoric to early modern times. It will span the breadth of a survey of Asian art, but be topical and selective in approach. The first half of the semester will focus on religious art and the sweep of Buddhist art across the region. The second half of the semester will turn to secular, primarily courtly, art. In doing so, this course will highlight waves of cross-cultural influence in the region, as well as distinct differences in the arts. The course can serve as one of the required courses for School of Art and Design majors. This is an NIU General Education course in the Knowledge Domain: Creativity and Critical Analysis. It is an elective for the Minor in Southeast Asian Studies and Certificate of Undergraduate Study in Asian American Studies.

Writing-Infused and includes weekly graded writing and class discussion participation.

The architecture, paintings, monumental sculpture, and other visual arts of Renaissance Italy have influenced artists and architects for five centuries and circled the globe from Europe to the Americas and Asia. We will examine the original cultural meanings of these arts, and how those meanings have changed as these arts have traveled across time and place.

ARTH 330F satisfies the PLUS Knowledge Domain Society and Culture.

Study of the history of contemporary art is a study of ideas about art as well as intertwined historical contexts. On the one hand, we see the increasing institutionalization and commodification of art. On the other hand, we see the pursuit of social justice. The era of contemporary art begins in the mid-1950s, when artists adopt Marcel Duchamp's insight that art is primarily conceptual, not visual. This means that an artwork is not solely a visually stimulating object; instead, it is a vehicle for exploration. In addition to lectures and readings, and two brief essays, this course gives students the opportunity to present their favorite contemporary artist to the class. Every third class will be devoted to discussion. ARTH 350C satisfies PLUS (Creativity and Critical Analysis) requirements, is included in the Creativity, Innovation and Change Pathway, and has been certified as a Writing Infused.

Topics: Japanese American Artists

This course explores an area of Asian American visual arts by focusing in particular (but not exclusively) on Japanese American artists, Japanese artists in America, Japanese arts influence in America, and American reception of Japanese arts via exhibitions and publications. Students will define original research topics, and/or interview contemporary living artists. For most of October and part of November, the class will be collaborating online with students at Yamaguchi Prefectural University. We will seek fresh perspectives and new understanding of individual histories, cultural identities, experiences, and social influences.

From World's Fair to National Park

Architectural and ethnographic villages, arrangements of traditional buildings in park-like settings often populated by living people, were a popular and regular feature of international exhibitions in the 19th century. In Europe, this tradition evolved into the construction of permanent open-air museums, first in Sweden, then in many other parts of Europe. In the United States, however, the preservation of cultural tradition took on different forms. This course will explore the use of rustic hotels, lodges, visitor centers, and other structures in the US National Parks in the early twentieth century, and their relationship to the architectural villages of the great world's fairs. This is a reading, writing, and research-intensive course. Students will work on a semester-long research project, which they will present to class at the end of the semester.

Synchronous online courses occur in real time and are taught 100% online, but students will meet with the class at a set time each week. When you register for a synchronous course in MyNIU, the system will indicate the course is online (100%) synchronous where the "room" is listed. You will also see course meeting times listed.

This course focuses on the issues and legal rules that are implicated when a controversy is susceptible to being governed by more than one law, sovereign or legal authority. The course will address choice of law issues in both the domestic and international contexts, i.e., how courts go about choosing the law that governs disputes with trans-border implications. In addition, the course will analyze some of the ways in which the U.S. Constitution regulates conflicts of law within the United States. Among other things, the course will address the enforceability of judgments, the legislative jurisdiction of the states, the judicial jurisdiction of the state and federal courts, the federal preemption of state law and the application of state law in federal court. By definition, Conflict of Laws implicates a wide variety of substantive legal fields. In this course, conflicts within the Tort and Family Law contexts will be addressed in particular detail. Among the other substantive legal areas included will be Contracts, Property, Antitrust, Maritime and International Human Rights Law.

Examines how law and legal systems impact poor people. Federal and state laws and the agencies and organizations that define and regulate the lives of poor individuals and families are studied. Covers the history of legal services for the poor, societal and political responses to poverty and competing public policy perspectives over issues of welfare, welfare reform and ways to address income disparity and the lives of poor people in the United States. Subject matter is analyzed from both historical and sociological perspectives. Public benefits, education, and the impact of gender, race, ethnicity and immigration status are reviewed in the context of constitutional and administrative law.

Advanced Legal Research is intended to provide second and third year law students with enhanced research skills for the successful practice of law. The course takes a subject approach encompassing many different areas of law, including but not limited to labor and employment, immigration, tax, bankruptcy, securities, court rules, procedure and practice sets, and legislative history (federal and Illinois). Low-cost and emerging research platforms are also covered. Brief overviews of the substantive areas of law are provided, then students are introduced to the major research resources available within the subjects covered. Additionally, hands-on practice exercises are worked on before graded assignments are completed. The main focus of the course is online research, however print materials are referenced at times, such as when no comparable online equivalent exists.

The Civil Justice Clinic provides students with experience handling a variety of civil legal matters on behalf of low-income senior citizens and survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking and elder abuse in Winnebago County, Illinois. Students gain transactional experience and develop interviewing, client counseling, fact investigation, legal research and writing skills by drafting estate planning documents such as wills and powers of attorney. Students gain litigation experience and develop trial preparation, negotiation and oral advocacy skills by representing clients in civil matters related to orders of protection, family law, guardianships, small claims and probate issues. Students are expected to attend a one-day clinic orientation, participate in a seminar that meets once a week for one hour and fifty minutes, and spend a minimum of twelve hours each week working on client related matters which includes working a minimum of eight hours at the Zeke Giorgi Legal Clinic in Rockford each week.

Students in the Criminal Defense Clinic represent adults charged with criminal offenses. The offenses will typically be misdemeanor offenses, major traffic offenses and low level felony offenses. In addition, the clinic represents individuals in petitioning for removal from the sex offender registry as a result of juvenile sex offense adjudications. The clinic provides a holistic approach to representation in addressing underlying causes of criminal behavior such as mental health or substance abuse issues. Students are expected to devote a significant number of hours each week to the practice experience, as determined by the clinic director.
Additionally, students participate in a classroom seminar taught by a member of the clinical faculty. The classroom seminar provides an in-depth discussion of legal theory and doctrine, and legal procedure in the context of students' cases as well as examining systemic issues in criminal justice.

The Business Law Innovation Clinic provides students with experience handling a variety of business law matters on behalf of non-profit entities, underserved entrepreneurs, and small businesses in De Kalb County and the surrounding areas. Students gain transactional experience and develop interviewing, client counseling, client development skills, and relationship-building habits with clients, legal research and writing skills by drafting documents such as incorporation documents, bylaws, and a broad range of agreements. Students also gain experience and develop negotiation skills by representing clients in business law matters, including Business Enterprise Certifications and trademark registration. Students will learn the habits and skills of successful private practice, such as time management, timekeeping, organization, attention to detail, and developing and managing strong client relationships. Students are expected to attend a one-day clinic orientation, participate in a seminar that meets once a week for one hour and fifty minutes, and spend a minimum of twelve hours working on client-related matters which includes working a minimum of eight hours at the clinic space in Swen Parson Hall each week.
