Rationale: The proposed name change is more consistent with College of Engineering and Engineering Technology. The name change will also reduce confusion on the programs for students and external persons such as parents of potential students and High School Advisors. According to the dean’s office, the name of the department was originally approved by the IBHE as “Engineering Technology” and no official name change documentation has been located.

Admission to Graduate Study

↓

Examinations Required for Admission

Applicants to graduate programs in curriculum and instruction, early childhood education, educational psychology, instructional technology, and literacy education may submit Miller Analogies Test (MAT) scores in lieu of GRE scores. Applicants to the graduate program in school business management may submit Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) scores in lieu of GRE scores. With approval of the Department of Engineering Technology, the GRE scores requirement may be waived for applicants to the M.S. in industrial management on the basis of significant work experience. Applicants to the M.S. in sport management or management information systems may submit either the GRE or the GMAT scores to the Graduate School.
