INTRODUCTION

The University Archives acquired material from the University Press in several installments from 1968 to 1978. Current publications are received regularly. There are no restrictions on access to the collection.

22 boxes
22.75 linear feet
1965-

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The University Press records consist primarily of the Press's publications. There are several folders of information on the formative years, 1965-1975.

For additional information, researchers should consult the Presidents' Papers, the Provosts' Administrative Records and the records of the College of Education in the University Archives.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The University Council approved the establishment of a University Press on May 3, 1965. By November of that year faculty members were being asked to serve on the University Press Board and the search for a Director of the Press was being organized. The Board held its first meeting on May 26, 1966, and the first publication came out in 1967.
